Special To-night THE CIPHER MESSAGE Two Reel 8 Lig Lionel Verker and his sister, Marie, two clever English crooks, make their appearance at an American seaside resort. Lionel rescues Bob Kent from drowning and becomes a guest of the Kent's, millionaires, at their house.
Verker, learning of the resignation of a lady's maid, wires his sister to apply for the position which she secures with a forged reference. Muriel Kent discovers the loss of a valuable brooch, which she wears at a lawn fete. John Kent quietly engages Donald Bryce, a famous detective, who loses no time in being introduced in the family as a friend.
He soon discovers that Lionel and the new maid are in communication.
Later, after shadowing to his apartments, he secures a cipher message
which has passed between Verker and the maid.
Cleverly deciphering the message and securing photographs of the Ver-kers and their criminal records, he catches them with the goods and sends the pair where they belong.

FORETOLD HIS COMING DEATH

Levi Shindledecker, Formerly of Fairfield Prophesied Time of his Death. Passed away Wednesday in Waynesboro. Other Deaths.

Levi Shindledecker, a well-known
resident of Edgemont, died Wednesday
of a complication of diseases, in his 75th year. He had been ill for some time.

Mr. Shindledecker was born in Adams county, the son of Jacob Shindledecker. He became a shingle-maker by trade and worked at this for a long time in Fairfield. For two years he resided at Rouzerville and April 1, 1910,
he removed to Edgemont. He had intended moving to Wayne Heights on Wednesday, the day he died.

Shortly before his death he said to
his wife: "You'll have two troubles
about April 1. One is the moving; the other a funeral."

Mr. Shindledecker had many friends wherever he was known. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Harriet Himes, Frederick county. His second wife, who survives him, was Miss Barbara A. Hoover, near Rouzerville.
He is survived, also, by two daughters: Mrs. Frank Rickrode and Mrs.
David Krebs, both of Hanover.

He is survived, too, by these brothers: Hiram Shindledecker, Wayne Heights; Madison Shindledecker, Fairfield, and Albert Shindledecker, Gladstone, Ill.

Of the nine children of Jacob Shindledecker, Adams county, six have died in the last four years.

Funeral this, Friday, afternoon in Waynesboro.

D. B. BRUMBAUGH

D. B. Brumbaugh died on Thursday
at his home in Roaring Springs. Mr.
Brumbaugh was the father of Miss Ruth Brumbaugh and Truman Brumbaugh, both of whom are now at Gettysburg College, and of Dr. Arthur Brumbaugh, Lieutenant Edward Brumbaugh and Miss Sara Brum-
baugh, all graduates of the local institution. He was for some years a member of the board of trustees of Gettysburg Theological Seminary and had many friends here. Mr. Brumbaugh died on his birthday and Miss Ruth Brumbaugh was at home at the time, having gone several days ago to help celebrate the anniversary.

NOT MUCH REVENUE

Mont Alto Town has $360 Tax to Spend in Year.

Mont Alto's borough council, at a regular meeting, fixed the borough
tax for the coming year at four mills.
This is the same amount as the road
tax heretofore levied by the Quincy Township supervisors and will not make a heavier burden upon the Mont Alto people. The amount of the revenue from the borough tax will be about $360.

The council hopes to receive a sum of money—probably $100—from the State Highway Department, because of the extensive use made of Mont
Alto's streets by teams for the White Pine Sanitarium and the State Forestry Department.

The matter of a water supply is not yet determined. So far the Health Department has not given its sanction to the use of Tarburners spring. The State uses this water for the sanitarium and it fears Mont Alto may injure the supply.

MANY NEW HOMES WILL BE BUILT

Gettysburg Residents to Erect Fine
New Dwelling Houses this Spring
and Summer. Some will Improve Present Homes.

The steady and healthy expansion of Gettysburg is again shown this spring
in the great demand for houses and
flats and in the building operations
now in progress or soon to be commenced. A number of fine new homes
are to be built in Gettysburg this summer and there are now practically no
vacant houses in the town while flats
are at a premium.

South Street which has been recently opened up for building purposes is
to have another double brick house, Emory Plank being the owner. There are two other houses on that street
now and it promises soon to be one of the most popular sections of "Sleepy Hollow".

Several new houses are to go up in the North End of town this summer.
Frank R. Peckman, who has been living for several years at the corner of Broadway and Mummasburg Road is planning to put up a residence for his own occupancy on the south side of Broadway between Washington and Carlisle streets. John W. Brehm is also planning to build on his lot on the south side of Broadway between the homes of Edgar A. Crouse and Paul
A. Martin.

George Stallsmith is planning to build a row of two double brick houses
on Stratton street near Railroad
street, improving greatly that portion of town and contributing materially to the other building operations in that part of Gettysburg.

Charles Shends has started to build
a brick house on Hanover street near Fourth street, and Harold Strick-
houser is building a double brick house
on York street near Fourth street,
adding to the rapidly increasing number of new homes in the eastern end of town.

James Weikert recently completed
his double house on York street and it is now occupied. Mr. Weikert himself residing in the one portion of it. Ernest Ziegler's new residence on North Washington street, near Chambers-
burg street, has been pushed right
along and will before very long be ready for occupancy.

A number of other Gettysburg residents are planning to build but have not decided definitely whether or not
they will put up their houses during the coming summer.

Remodeling will be done in a number of houses and at several business
places improvements are under consideration to be announced later. Contractors expect to have their hands
full all summer and when the fall
comes a noticeable improvement in the appearance of Gettysburg may be expected.

Men who make a business of laying concrete pavements are also looking forward to busy days as soon as "the frost is out of the ground" and the town will take another step forward
to rid itself of its present undesirable
reputation for bad sidewalks.

TOOK TESTS

Gettysburg Post Office Clerks Make
High Records and Good Speed.

An examination in dispatching and efficiency was held in the Gettysburg
post office on Thursday by Chief Clerk Burkholder of Harrisburg. Two of the local clerks took the examination
which is similar to that to which the railway post office clerks are subjected. Peter C. Stock had a record of 99.85 and a speed of thirty eight pieces a minute. Preston W. Hull made a record of 99.12 and a speed of thirty pieces a minute. Both are to be congratulated on their highly satisfactory
showing.

SEVEN HOURS

Musical Show Pleases Large Audience
in Walter's Theatre.

"Seven Hours in New York" drew a good house at Walter's Theatre Thursday night. The attraction had the same principals as last year with one or two exceptions and the fun was well cared for. The audience was enthusiastic in showing its approval of the tango and could have stood many encores. Given a larger and better
chorus, "Seven Hours" would deserve
big houses everywhere.

SECURED MONEY AND VALUABLES

Party of Several Young Men Fleece Boarding House People by Engaging Rooms and then Taking Various Articles and Decamping.

Several boarding and lodging house
proprietors in Littlestown are mourning the loss of cash and other valuables as the result of operations carried on by several strange young men
who visited the town.

They were well dressed fellows and
visited various homes where they engaged lodging, saying that their baggage would arrive on the next train but in the meantime asked to be shown to their room as they wished to change
shirts. The request having been complied with, and the landlady having returned down stairs, they took up
their work and all valuables in adjoining rooms were taken.

On going down stairs, it is said,
they asked the location of some business place and when they departed
left to return no more.

At one place the man after being shown to his room called down and asked if there was a Y. M. C. A. in town. When the lady went up stairs
after the man had gone out, she found
the bureau drawers had been ransack-
ed and $8 in a child's bank missing.

LITTLESTOWN

Littlestown—In a letter to a friend
in this place, Father Crotty, of Centralia, states that after a sojourn of two months at Norfolk he has regained his health, and feels ten years younger. This will be good news to the many friends of Father Crotty in this place who had been solicitous about
his health.

Miss Bruce Olive Maring, daughter
of Jonas Maring, of Mt. Joy township, underwent a successful operation at the Keystone Hospital, Harrisburg, on Tuesday, for abdominal and nervous trouble. Dr. G. W. Hartman was assisted by Dr. H. L. Northrop, of Philadelphia. Miss Maring was taken to the hospital by Dr. R. H. Lindaman, of Bonneauville.

The members of the Methodist Episcopal Church gave their pastor,
Rev. Ellis B. Davidson, and his mother, a reception at the parsonage Friday evening of last week. Rev. Mr.
Davidson, at the recent meeting of the Conference, was returned to this place for another year, and his parishioners planned this reception in honor
of his return. A very pleasant evening
was spent socially and refreshments
were served.

Mrs. Ellen Erb, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Crouse, near Gettysburg, visited at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Harry A. Feeser,
at the edge of town, over last Sunday.

Rev. I. M. Lau, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, who has been ill for some time, continues to improve, is able to be out and around, and expects to resume his pastoral duties this coming Sabbath.

At the recent election of officers by the senior class of Mercersburg Academy, for the class day exercises during Commencement week, Harold A.
Butz, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Butz,
of this place, was elected prophet.

Mrs. W. F. Groce and children left
this Thursday morning for Selinsgrove, to join her husband, where they will make their future home. Mr.
Groce, who was formerly superintendent of the silk mill in this place, and one of the town's best citizens, now
owns and operates a mill in Selins-
grove.

ARRESTED

Biglerville Man is in Jail on Several Charges.

the Adams County jail charged with assault and battery, surety of the peace, and maliciously breaking windows. It is said that he engaged in an altercation with Rudolph Arnold in Biglerville on Thursday and that afterward he went to the Arnold home
and broke several windows. The arrest
was made by County Detective Wilson
and, at a hearing before Squire Hill,
Murray was held for Court.

TOOK GIRL AT POINT OF GUN

Faint Heart Ne'er Won Fair Lady,
Apparently Thought Mountain
Lover who Took Girl by Force
from her Mother.

Determined that he would succeed
in stealing away his sweetheart from
her parents, who strongly objected,
and marrying her, an ardent lover of near Pen Mar took a revolver along
with him with the intention of using it should any person interfere.

This determined lover was Charles Wagaman, of near Buena Vista Springs Hotel, and his sweetheart was Miss Hattie Shockey, of Beartown.

Wagaman left his home to meet his bride, and upon his arrival at her home
he was confronted by her mother, who refused to permit her daughter to go along with him.

Seeing that the girl's mother was determined not to yield, Wagaman
pulled his revolver on the woman and
then took her daughter away with him.

The couple left Beartown, it being
their intention to go to Hagerstown,
Md., to get a marriage license and afterward have the ceremony performed.

Christian Shockey, a brother of the girl, happened to return home shortly
after Wagaman had taken her away.
He was opposed to his sister marrying
Wagaman, and left in hot pursuit
after the couple, in company with Charles Wolff.

The two men overtook the fleeing
couple in Waynesboro, just in the act
of taking an outgoing car of the Chambersburg, Greencastle and Waynesboro Street Railway Company for Shady Grove, where the line connects with the Northern cars for Hagerstown. After a bitter discussion, which almost led to a pistol duel and fist
fight, Shockey succeeded in separating his sister and Wagaman.

The Shockey girl went home. Where Wagaman went it has not as yet been learned.

FEAR 150 DIED WHEN SHIP SANK

Sealing Steamer Goes Down
in a Blizzard.

ANOTHER SHIP IS MISSING

Many Men Die on Ice Floes and the Few Who Survived Are Picked Up.
Many Were Dying When Saved.

St. Johns, N. F., April 3.—The sealing steamer Newfoundland has been crushed in the ice just south of Belle Isle Strait and the greater part of her crew of 150 men are believed to have perished.

Steamers in the vicinity picked up several bodies and a few of the crew, who had survived on the ice floes to which they escaped when their vessel went down.

Fifty of the crew of the steamer have been accounted for in this manner. Most of them were dead when discovered and several of the others were dying.

The sufferings of those found beggars description. For forty-eight hours they were adrift on ice floes while a furious blizzard swept over them.

Great alarm is also felt for the sealing steamer Southern Cross, which is also believed to have been caught in the ice. The first reports received in St. Johns said that it was a part of the crew of the Southern Cross that had been picked up and that they were being brought into port by the Newfoundland. There were 173 men on board the Southern Cross.

The storm that has raged over Newfoundland for three days continues unabated and the telegraph service to points along the coast has suffered. Meager reports relayed from one vessel to another by wireless and more or less confused states that of the crew of the Newfoundland 120 men were still on the ice floes. It is possible that some of the bodies picked up on the ice were those of the crew of the Southern Cross.

One report says that the men who left the Newfoundland were scattered by the moving ice fields in different directions. The wind was blowing a gale off shore, and there was a blinding snow storm, in which the crew would be unable to find their way in any direction.

They had little food when they left the ship and no extra clothing. Without tents or other shelter many succumbed to hunger and exposure. It is feared that few will survive. Vessels sent out from St. Johns are searching among the ice floes.

According to a dispatch from the Florizel, the rescued men held out no hope for the safety of their comrades. They said a blizzard had been raging for thirty-six hours after the steamer was crushed and there was little possibility of any surviving long.

The sealer was crushed on Tuesday, when three-quarters of the crew were several miles from her. These men numbered 120 and there were more than eighty men on board.

All of those who were away from the vessel are believed to have perished within a few hours, as they had none of the supplies that preserved the lives of a few of the sailors who were on board the vessel when the disaster occurred. They were able to snatch a few provisions and blankets before the vessel sank. Despite this, most of that portion of the crew also perished.

LIND TO LEAVE MEXICO

President Wilson's Special Envoy to Take a Vacation.

Washington, April 3.—President Wilson announced that John Lind, his personal representative in Mexico, will sail for the United States from Vera Cruz, but would return later after he had a rest.

The president said Mr. Lind's return was for a "vacation," and should not be interpreted as meaning any change of policy.

Mr. Lind has expressed a wish to come back on account of his health. He will sail on the yacht Mayflower and will pass through Washington on his way to French Lick Springs, Ind., and St. Paul, Minn., his home.

Mr. Wilson said there were no negotiations pending between the United States and the Huerta government on any peace proposals or parleys.

Rob Store's Customers.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 3.—Flourishing revolvers and threatening to kill any person who opposed them, two colored bandits walked into the store of the People's Supply company at Russellton, lined up several customers and forced them to give up their money and valuables. The robbers then went into the office of Manager M. S. Opin, placed a revolver at his head, robbed him of $300 and escaped.

VENANGO COUNTY DRY, JUDGE RULES

Says Change of Sentiment
Warrants Action.

Franklin, Pa., April 3.—All applications for wholesale and retail liquor licenses in Venango county were refused by Judge George S. Criswell, who had granted licenses for eighteen years, and three new applications were made this year. Judge Criswell hasn't disposed of two brewery applications.

The applications were refused on the ground that saloons are not necessary, and in this connection Judge Criswell took into consideration the public welfare.

The court that fails to do this, he says, fails to exercise the discretion which it possesses relative to public interest. To regard as proper for consideration only the useful and unobjectionable functions of a liquor license is to do violence not only to the adjudged law of the state, but to the common sense of men, the judge says.

Judge Criswell declares that the Brooks high license law does not say it is "lawful" for courts to refuse licenses, but provides that they "shall" refuse them when they aren't necessary, and the question of necessity is left to the discretion of the court.

The judge admits that the Brooks law is not a local option law, but says it contains a local option in feature, in that it requires courts to have due regard for the number and character of petitioners and remonstrants.

GIRL SUES HAZERS FOR $7000

Purdue University Student Alleges
Seven Seniors Cruelly Treated Her.
Lafayette, Ind., April 3.—As a result of a hazing in the girls' dormitory of Purdue university last January, Mabel Rogers filed suit against seven senior girls, demanding $7000.

The plaintiff, who is a first year girl, alleges that as a result of the hazing her sight is impaired and her health destroyed.

Miss Rogers alleges that seven girls dragged her from her room, tore off her clothing, painted her chest, back and neck with red ink, poured mud-lage on her back, stuck her with pins and ducked her in a tub of water.

FALLING GIRDER KILLS THREE

Four Others Injured When Derrick Collapses in Brooklyn.

New York, April 3.—Three men were killed and four others probably fatally injured through the collapse of a derrick that was carrying a ten-ton girder to the top of a moving picture house, in the course of construction in Brooklyn.

The girder had been lifted almost to the top when the derrick snapped. The girder smashed a scaffold on which the men were working, hurling them to the ground.

TWELVE RESERVE BANKS NAMED

Were Chosen From a List of Thirty-seven Cities.

TWELVE DISTRICTS OUTLINED

Each Reserve Bank Must Subscribe
a Minimum of $4,000,000 Capital in Reserve System.

Washington, April 3.—The twelve districts and twelve reserve cities of the federal reserve banking system authorized by the new currency law were announced by the organization committee. This is the first formal step to be taken in the organization of the new banking system.

The cities that are to have federal reserve banks are: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Va.; Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Dallas, Tex.; San Francisco and Kansas City.

Twelve districts are outlined, with these cities as financial centers, it being required that the reserve bank of each district shall subscribe to a minimum of $4,000,000 of capital in the reserve system.

The reserve cities were chosen from a list of thirty-seven which urged their claims on the committee with keen rivalry. The organization committee, which consists of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Comptroller of the Currency Williams, were authorized by law to designate not less than eight nor more than twelve cities, to be known as federal reserve cities, and they have selected the maximum number.

The eastern districts are as follows: District No. 1—The New England states; Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, with Boston as the location of the federal reserve bank.

District No. 2—The state of New York, with New York city as the location of the federal reserve bank.

District No. 3—New Jersey and Delaware and all that part of Pennsylvania located east of the western boundary of the following counties: McKean, Elk, Clearfield, Cambria and Bedford, with the federal reserve bank in Philadelphia.

District No. 4—Ohio, all that part of Pennsylvania lying west of district No. 3, the counties of Marshall, Ohio, Brooke and Hancock in the state of West Virginia and part of Kentucky, with the federal reserve bank in Cleveland.

District No. 5—The District of Columbia and the states of Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and all of West Virginia, except the counties of Marshall, Ohio, Brooke and Hancock, with the federal reserve bank in Richmond, Va.

CONGRESS WILL END IN JUNE

Fifteen Months Session, With No
Curtailed of Program, in Sight.

Washington, April 3.—When asked whether the lengthy consideration of the tolls question would necessitate a curtailment of the legislative program so as to assure an early adjournment of congress, President Wilson said no change in the administration's plans as outlined early in the session was contemplated.

The president said he believed congress could dispose of its business, including the tolls and trust questions, by the middle of June or the first of July.

Members of congress are anxious to make the session as short as possible because of their practically continuous work since April a year ago, and the proximity of the elections.

HUSBAND SLAYS WIFE AND SELF

Fear of Blindness Causes
Double Tragedy.

LITTLE SONS BLAME BURGLARS

"You Killed Papa and Mamma, and You'll Go to Jail," They Shout When Police Arrive.

Philadelphia, April 3.—Brooding melancholy over the thought that he was losing his sight is believed to have unhinged the mind of Alexander Glaser, thirty years old, of 5503 Master street, and led directly to the deliberate murder of his wife and the killing of himself.

The shooting occurred in the bedroom of Mrs. Glaser, beside whom slept the couple's youngest child, Francis, six years old. He and his brother, Charles, aged eight years, under the impression that their parents had been slain by burglars, did what they could to capture the supposed intruders.

Inquiry among the relatives of Glaser and a perusal of letters he wrote reveal the hatching in his mind of the plot for the killing and also indicate that his state of mind was such that he had come to believe his wife was bent on getting rid of him and wanted to poison him. Neighbors and relatives of the couple assert that this was pure hallucination on his part.

Four revolver shots, breaking the early morning stillness, attracted the attention of Haase, a policeman, and William Steele, a night watchman. Entering the house by breaking a dining room window, they were confronted in the dim light by the small white-clad figure of eight-year-old Charles Glaser, who railed at them:

"You bad burglars killed my papa and my mamma," he stormed at them. "You'll have to go to jail for this and you'll have to pay for smashing that window, too."

The lad quieted down a little when he saw Haase's uniform and realized that he, at least, was safe. "What's the matter here?" demanded the policeman. "There's burglars in the house," said the little chap.

Upstairs the intruders found Mrs. Julia Glaser, twenty-eight years old, lying flat on her back in bed, with a bullet hole through her right eye and another through her abdomen. She was dead.

Beside the bed knelt her husband. He, too, was dead, with bullet holes in exactly the same places, through his right eye and in the abdomen. His right hand still firmly grasped a revolver, from which four bullets had just been fired.

The house is nicely furnished, well taken care of and indicates that the occupants were people of more or less refinement. Neighbors had noticed the little family as an acquisition to the neighborhood, quiet, good neighbors, apparently happy and completely devoted to each other.

FOILS WOULD-BE ROBBER

Express Messenger Wounds Bandit in Pistol Duel on Car.

Athens, Ga., April 3.—An attempt by a lone bandit to rob a Seaboard Air line passenger train near Comer, Ga., was frustrated by R. C. Fletcher, the express messenger.

After a pistol duel with Fletcher the bandit jumped from the train and escaped.

The bandit swung aboard the express car as the train was leaving a watering station. Covering Fletcher with a revolver, he ordered him to open the safe.

Fletcher drew a revolver and opened fire on the man. After several shots had been exchanged the bandit, who was wounded in the arm, dropped his weapon and fled.

IN THE SPORTING WORLD

De Oro to Try For Pool Championship.

Alfred De Oro intends to challenge Benny Allen of Kansas City in an effort to regain his title as American pool champion. Allen, who is comparatively a youngster, defeated the Cuban veteran in their last match and has declared his willingness to give De Oro an opportunity to win back the championship.

Amateur Baseball League.

Formal organization of the National Amateur Baseball league has been completed in Chicago with the election of officers and the adoption of rules. E. C. Patterson of New York was elected president. Other officers are: First vice president, Clayton C. Townes, Cleveland; second vice president, Jesse S. Smith, Chicago; secretary and treasurer, E. C. Seaton, Chicago; directors, George Bredell, Louisville, Ky.; F. W. Rostock, Cleveland, O.; R. C. Johns, St. Paul; Harry Lundsager, Columbus, O.; G. D. Turner, Gary, Ind.; R. H. Abeken, St. Louis, and Jesse S. Smith, Chicago. It was decided to open the season May 1 and close in time to hold the championship series before Oct. 15. Each city will organize its own league, the membership being confined to those players who have not received pay for playing baseball or who are not under contract to professional clubs.

Rules of the national commission will govern the association. The meeting adjourned, to be reconvened at the call of the president.

To Saddle Uhan.

For the first time in trotting horse history a record breaking stepper is going out of harness and under saddle for show purposes. C. K. G. Billings is having his famous trotter, Uhan, 2:00, the fastest of his type without artificial assistance, sent from his Curis Neck farm, Virginia, to New York.

Uhan will make his first public appearance as a show saddle horse at the New York spring horse show at Madison Square Garden on April 22, 23 and 24 next. Then the course of the season's indoor and outdoor shows will be followed. If Uhan proves as good a saddle horse as he has shown himself a harness racer there is no doubt that many other owners of trotting stock will hasten to convert their horses.

Heads Penn Grapplers.

Ernest W. Hogg, a senior in the veterinary school of the University of Pennsylvania, was elected captain of the Red and Blue wrestling team. Hogg succeeds to the position formerly held by Henriques Crawford, who was forced to resign on account of leaving college.

Hogg has been a member of the wrestling team at Penn for three years. In which time he has competed in the 175 pound class. Although not a star of the first water, he is, nevertheless, one of the best wrestlers on the squad and has shown much improvement this season under the tutelage of Coach Craig.

King George Offers Cup.

The king of England will offer a cup for an international yacht race to be held during the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915, according to a copy of a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Sir William Carrington, the king's aide-de-camp.

The letter is addressed to the exposition authorities and asks that an inscription to be engraved on the cup be forwarded to England. The value of the cup will be $500, and Sir Thomas Lipton's entry, Shamrock IV, is expected to be one of the competitors.

Consider Return Invasion.

James J. Callahan, manager of the Chicago White Sox, says that there is a possibility that the two teams may again cross the Atlantic in the fall to play in London and other English cities as well as in Paris and Berlin.

Callahan stated that he understood plans were already being considered for the return of the baseball athletes owing to the great interest that has been aroused in the British Isles and on the continent by the few exhibitions staged of the American national pastime.

Chinese Skillful Farmers.

For intensive farming the Chinese can teach almost any other nationality on earth. Their methods would be impractical here, but for sheer ability to obtain from the small space of ground the greatest yield they have no peers.

Allowing milk or cream to freeze injures its quality and texture, and such milk or cream will not test as high as it would if it had been separated while warm. After being separated the cream should be stored so that it will not freeze, while the milk should be kept while it is being taken to market.

He usually gets the best results from his dairy cows who makes a somewhat close study of the individual characteristics and tendencies of the several members of his herd. The information gained in this manner should be of practical benefit in the adjustment of the cow's ration to her needs and in milking her and giving her other care.

In the midst of all of the interest and energy directed to the production of tilled crops it is quite natural to overlook the worth of a first class pasture, and this is true whether the same is to be used for cattle, sheep or hogs. We need a revival of interest in pastures and in conditions which make for the largest measure of pasture efficiency and production.

While the most valuable portion of the public domain has been taken up by homesteaders, there is still sufficient land not yet entered to furnish a million people with homesteads of 160 acres each. It is true these quarter sections are at a considerable distance from shipping points and settlements, but they are fertile and will produce good crops if properly handled.

It is a very good plan for the farmer who has been sticking pretty close by his work to attend the neighboring sale no matter whether he wants to buy or not. For the same reason his good wife should take in the sewing circle or the quilting bee. It means a change and relaxation, and both these conditions are necessary if either man or woman is to be in best condition for work.

A scientist in Chicago has discovered that the insects of tuberculosis in monkeys may be stopped by placing the little animals out of doors, but providing them warm quarters in which to sleep. Human beings suffering from pulmonary complaints ought to gather a suggestion from the above facts. There is a lot of the outdoors, and fresh air is the cheapest medicine under heaven.

The 1913 fruit crop of the Grand valley, in Colorado, is said to be the direct result of using smudge pots and the production thereof of sufficient artificial heat to offset the cold snaps of last spring. Three hundred thousand smudge pots were called into use, and these were kept burning by a large army of volunteers. The value of the fruit crops saved in this manner is estimated at $2,000,000.

Figures that have been gathered by the federal department of agriculture show that there are 2,000,000,000 acres of land in the United States and Alaska. Of this amount it is estimated that about 60 per cent, or 1,200,000,000 acres, is tillable. This includes all land that can be possibly brought under tillage with the aid of clearing, drainage and irrigation. About 24 per cent of the land is worthless for any kind of agricultural use, while 19 per cent is fit only for grazing purposes.

At $3 a box on eastern markets oranges are cheaper than they have been in a good many years. With the fruit running 176 to the box, this means that the price is 20 cents a dozen. With oranges so cheap, some housewives who are readers of these notes may be interested in the following recipe for a tried orange marmalade: Slice one dozen navel oranges and four lemons very thin without peeling. To each pound of fruit add one pint of cold water and let stand for twenty-four hours; then boil slowly until tender. Allow this to stand until the next day; then weigh and to each pound of fruit and juice add one pound of granulated sugar and cook until the mixture jellies.

The price paid for butter to patrons of creameries in the dairy states slumped from 37 to 26 cents during the month of January. This is a greater as well as a more sudden drop than has occurred for years. While the drop may be in part explained by the admission of small quantities of butter duty free from other countries, it is doubtless more fully accounted for by the fact that butter speculators and storage men who bought butter all last season at prices considerably above what they would have paid had none of the product been put in storage found themselves loaded to the guards with spring not far away and were compelled from the very force of circumstances to unload some of their holdings.

Gummosis, a disease or affection that has played havoc in a good many cherry orchards, seems in most cases to be caused by injury or other unfavorable conditions, such as being bark bound, excessive freezing and sun scald, which is the result of alternate thawing and freezing. The disease may be checked by spraying with the concentrated lime-sulphur mixture before the buds start to grow, while in cases where the disease is due to the tree being bark bound the trouble may be modified by slitting the bark in four or five places up and down the trunk. This will cause the bark to expand and will make possible a freer circulation of sap. The varieties of cherries that seem most susceptible to damage from gummosis are the Royal Anne, Bing and Lambert.

Medical Advertising After Coughing Two Years

Waycross, Ga., Woman Found Relief in Vinol.

Did you ever cough for a week? Then just think how distressing it must be to have a cough hang on for two years.

Mrs. D. A. McGee, Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a very heavy cold which settled into a chronic cough which kept me awake nights for fully two years, and felt tired all the time. The effect of taking your cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, is that my cough is gone. I can now get a good night's rest and I feel much stronger in every way. I am 74 years old."

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cod's livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

Would Let His Hearers Sleep.

The Rev. Allan Stockdale, a Congregationalist pastor of Cambridge, Mass., has issued a notice to his flock intimating that no one need stay away from church because they fall asleep. "There are many reasons," he says, "why men go to sleep. Many of them have been hustling during the week, and when they come into the warm church and restful pews they cannot avoid sleeping. Heavy air and heavy sermons are also responsible; the music soothing, too. Let the man fall asleep; the rest will do him good perhaps."

Knew Whose Room It Was.

A Chicago business woman has recently returned from a trip through Pennsylvania. At a small town there is a hotel where it is said George Washington used to stay when he was in that part of the country. The Chicago woman arrived at the little hotel after a theatrical company had been assigned rooms. She was assigned to a poor room on the top floor. At the breakfast table an actress who had a comfortable room said: "They gave me the room they used to give George Washington when he came here." "Well," said the Chicago woman, "the one they gave me must be the one they gave Benedict Arnold when he came."

You can bank on the NORTH EAST ELECTRIC Starting and Lighting System for Ford Cars

It is worth having because you can start the engine from the drivers seat and is very easy to install, almost while you wait. Your car need not be rebuilt or taken apart. The system can be slipped under the hood as shown in the cut and will not interfere with anything. LISTEN, I have used this system on my car for six weeks and know it does the work very satisfactory. The construction is very simple, powerful, and reliable. I like it so much that I contracted for the agency for Franklin and Adams Counties. Would be pleased to demonstrate it to any one. ONE OF THE QUAINT LITTLE COATS NOW SO MODISH

These odd little coats with their flaring bottoms and high pointed collars are among the most practical modes that have been brought out for many a day. They can be worn with almost any skirt or dress appropriately, providing the colors harmonize. It is smart to have this little coat of plaid for use with plain skirts and vice versa.

On many of these coats, the yoke effect in back extends over the shoulders and the sleeves are attached; some are in kimono effect, others have the regular set-in sleeve.

No. 8198-7855 shows a coat of duvetyne and a skirt of plaid novelty goods. The novelty fabrics may be had in several widths and average in price from 75 cents a yard and up.

This costume may be made in size 36 with 2 1/2 yards of 42 inch material for the coat (8198) and for the skirt (7855) 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. In 8096, a very chic little one-piece dress is shown; it has the peg-top skirt, the yoke blouse with drop shoulder and although the main decorative effect is obtained from the design of the flowered crepe, yet two convenient patch pockets on each side of the skirt add to the result.

In size 36 this dress requires 4 1/2 yards of 42 inch material.

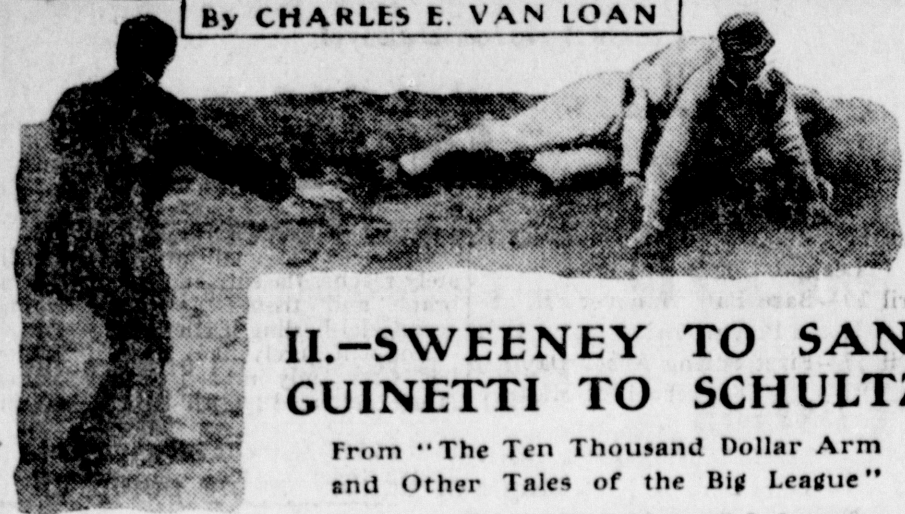

No. 8199—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 7855—sizes 22 to 30.
No. 8096—sizes 34 to 42.

Big League Stories

By CHARLES E. VAN LOAN

II.—SWEENEY TO SANGUINETTI TO SCHULTZ

From "The Ten Thousand Dollar Arm and Other Tales of the Big League"

Copyright, 1912, by Small, Maynard & Company

SWEENEY to Sanguinetti to Schultz. Thus it used to appear in the box score summary of the games in which the old Mudhens took part. Sometimes, of course, it was "Sanguinetti to Sweeney to Schultz," which was a mere matter of inconsequential detail, depending upon which side of the bag the ball was hit. If anything of a chain lightning nature was due to happen in the infield it was a certainty that it would be started by the Irishman, pushed along by the Italian and finished by the German. As for the third baseman, he was only a married man, with three children and a touch of rheumatism in his right knee. He did not count. The real stars of the Mudhen infield were Sweeney, Sanguinetti and Schultz.

Whether it was the red headed, fighting Mick at short who first got his hands on the ball or the nervous, temperamental Italian at second, it was always the mountain of a Tenthon at first who closed the incident with a sweep of his broad, flat mitt. Sweeney and Sanguinetti were wonders at starting things, but whenever they started something which they could not stop they yelled for Schultz. That was where Schultz shone. He was a noble finisher, that German first baseman.

This was just as true off the diamond as on, for the three were as closely allied in their hours of busy leisure as when they were working at their trade. That was what caused all the trouble. Sweeney, Sanguinetti and Schultz were too much together—too much together for their own good and the good of the club. When they were together they were hunting for trouble—that is to say, Sweeney wished to find trouble, and Sanguinetti told him where to look for it. After they had found it and amused themselves with it for awhile they turned it over to Schultz. He knew what to do with trouble, that big German.

For three years the trio lasted, skating on the thin edge of suspensions, managerial fines and police court proceedings. For three years they whipped policemen, taxi mahouts, waiters, and cab drivers. They demolished towns and teams; they split the league wide open, and then, just as they had made up, a pair of hands to reform, the old mudhen, and calmly fell upon them as a reward for an act of pure heroism—pure, unadulterated heroism, mind you. It doesn't seem right even to this day.

From the beginning of the alliance Sweeney, Sanguinetti and Schultz were "in Dutch" with the management of the club. After a time they grew used to it. The worst thing about Johnny Moore, the manager of the team, was that he had absolutely no sense of humor. He could not see any fun in a combination formed of an Irishman, an Italian and a German. Johnny should not be blamed for that. He was born that way.

Sweeney, of course, was the fountainhead of nearly all the devilment which flowed from the coalition. Sweeney had originality, initiative and inventiveness. He was a red headed, square shouldered, freckle faced young man who came from the gas house district of a great city. He began his career by playing ball upon the crowded streets and dodging policemen who wanted to arrest him for it. He has

"You say I didn't tag this bird today?" said Sanguinetti softly. "Well, I'll tell you the truth now. I didn't, but I'm going to tag—you!"

Fist and word landed at the same time, and down went the dish faced person in a heap, wondering in a dazed fashion what had happened to him.

It was a lively little party while it lasted. Sweeney did the best that was in him, landing his leathery fist with tremendous execution, and Sanguinetti began to pump rights and lefts into every strange face in sight. Sanguinetti did not last long. The dish faced person on the floor, recovering consciousness, identified Sanguinetti's legs and attached himself to them with such fervor that the second baseman pitched head first to the sawdust.

That made it bad—very bad—and it might have been worse but for the fact that the attacking party was suddenly split into two sections by a gigantic young man, who bellowed like a bull.

"Gif it to 'um, Sweeney!" he yelled. "Knock 'um out!"

It was Schultz to the rescue, and just in the nick of time. He planted a terrific kick in the midsection of the dish faced person, who was trying to get his thumb into Sanguinetti's eye, and as the second baseman jumped to his feet Schultz knocked one of the hoodlums head first across the free lunch table and with another powerful blow dropped a second one kicking and clucking to the floor.

There wasn't very much to the battle after that. Three of the seven were able to run, and they ran, taking one of the swinging doors with them. The others were on the floor. Two of them could crawl, and they crawled for the sidewalk.

"The bulls!" panted Sweeney. "Let's beat it!"

"Hey!" shouted the bartender. "Ain't you going to pay for these drinks?"

Even as that question hung quivering in the air the ball players vanished through a side door. When the "bulls" finally arrived on the scene of battle they found nothing but one very sick young man on the floor. He said he did not know what had happened to him, but inclined to the belief that some one must have murdered him when his head was turned. Later the ambulance surgeon located three broken ribs—one for Sweeney, one for Sanguinetti and one for Schultz. Of course the bartender didn't know a thing about it—not a thing. Never saw any of 'em before—hoped he would never see any of 'em again.

That was the way Schultz fought himself into the alliance. Is it any wonder that Sweeney and Sanguinetti received him with open arms?

Johnny Moore stood for a great many queer things in the course of three seasons, for there wasn't a better infield in the whole country, but at last his few remaining grains of patience were exhausted. The international triplets were getting upon his nerves.

"Now, listen here!" he said. "I'm going to announce myself. It's all very well for you to be three little pals together and take a drink once in awhile, but this business of raising hell—April till October has got to stop! You hear me? It's got to stop! That last time you got in down to Coney Island, was the extreme tip of the iceberg. The next time I hear of you blabbing on a bat—the very next time, mind you—down comes the ax. And it won't be a fine or a suspension either. You can paste that in your lit brown hats. I'll bust up this combination, that's what I'll do, and I'll bust it three ways from the liver! You ain't going to make me the goat any more and have everybody saying that I run a rowdy ball club. You start anything now, and I'll set you plumb outside!"

"The chief is peeved," said Sanguinetti to Sweeney. "Who do you suppose put him next to that little run in down at Coney?"

"Aw, some trouble detective," said Sweeney wearily. "I thought we had those fellows squared. Say, Nettie the old man means business this time. Let's cut out the rough stuff for awhile. We'll be getting ourselves disliked if we don't. Me for the water wagon."

"You said it for me, Larry," announced Sanguinetti. "Water wagon she is."

Schultz would not climb on with his friends. He said there was no sense in it, as he drank nothing but beer, anyway, and very little of that. But he warmly applauded the idea of his friends making a trial trip. Schultz was black and blue from the neck to the heels as a result of the last mess of trouble which Sweeney had found for him, and he welcomed signs of reform. Schultz was not quarrelsome by nature. He was always saddest when down on the floor with three or four perfect strangers. There never was a German who did not agree with Uncle Billy Sherman about that war business.

So the international alliance devoted itself assiduously to auction pie and "race horse pitch," went early to bed and drank nothing but water. Schultz having been persuaded against his better judgment. Johnny Moore could hardly believe his senses.

Fate decreed that the blow which was to fall upon the alliance should fall in St. Louis, the place of its origin. It came about through Sanguinetti's fatal fondness for the theater. The second baseman was passionately devoted to the sock, the buskin and the pink fleshings—anything so long as it was a "show" of some sort. As for Sweeney, he demanded girls and music, but principally girls. Musical comedy was his pet attraction. Schultz had no love for the drama in any form, and musical comedies made him very tired, but he had formed the habit of traveling with the others, so he took his medicine uncomplainingly, like the good fellow he was.

When the Mudhens arrived in St. Louis upon the trip selected by destiny, Sanguinetti, scanning the morning papers, announced that a new musical comedy was being produced at a house where he said his "face was good."

"We'll go around and look 'em over," said Sanguinetti.

"You and me both," said Sweeney. Schultz groaned, but said nothing.

That evening Sanguinetti presented himself at the ticket window and shook hands with the treasurer of the house.

"Hare you, boy?" said the treasurer. "Want to see the show?"

"Sure!"

"Well, the best I can do for you is an upper stage box. It's the one we set apart for members of the profession. It isn't likely I'll have to put any one in there with you. You're actors, all right, at that—bad actors."

"No," said Sweeney. "We've reformed. Didn't you hear about us? It'll be five weeks tomorrow since we got on the cart."

"Good news, says Mrs. Hughes!" remarked the treasurer.

He scribbled a few hieroglyphics upon the back of an envelope and passed three coupons through the window, and Sweeney, Sanguinetti and Schultz, led by the finger of fate, disappeared through the lobby. If their seats had been anywhere else in the house, anywhere but in that upper stage box—but, as we said before, no postmortems. Life is made up of the trivial things, the petty decisions, the trifling details which make or mar the future. And we never know until afterward and then it is too late.

Having guided the three ball players to their seats the machinery of destiny began to revolve rapidly.

"While the first act was in progress, Schultz, half asleep in the back of the box, was amazed to see a young lady enter, look about her disdainfully, sniff a few times, and take a seat as far away from him as possible. She was all of five years old.

"Hey! Look who's here!" said Schultz.

Sweeney and Sanguinetti were surprised too. Sanguinetti thought the young lady might be lost. He asked her about it. She regarded him with scorn.

"Lost!" said the young lady. "Well, I sh'd say not! I sing with my mamma in the third act. It's the hit of the piece!"

"Oh!" said Sweeney. "Is mamma an actress?"

"She's the principal boy with this show," announced the little stranger. "Wait till you see her. She's got the rest of these trouper beats to death!"

"I'm going to duck," announced Schultz suddenly. "She sings up here in dis box, unt we git a baw-owit!"

"Stick around," said Sweeney. "I won't come off until the last act."

Schultz collapsed, mumbling, and the young lady smoothed her fluffy skirts and sniffed contemptuously.

Destiny, in order to play out its hand, was using the press agent of the house. A press agent is a young man whose business it is to get the name of his show into print as often as possible, no matter what the city editor thinks about him.

This press agent, whose name was Harley Q. Walker, was a live wire in St. Louis. He kept in touch with the doings of his professional brethren in the east and when a new press agent stunt appeared on Broadway Harley Q. annexed it for St. Louis. Consequently when a baby elephant walked down the aisle of a New York theater and banded a bouquet over the footlights to the leading lady Walker knew about it. Great idea! Bully stuff! But baby elephants are scarce, and none was to be found in St. Louis. What to do now? Harley Q. slapped his broad, high forehead and reflected deeply. Ah! There was a troupe of performing baboons appearing at a summer garden in the city. Mr. Walker was saved.

London's Smoke Nuisance.

A parliamentary return just issued gives the total number of smoke consuming furnaces in the various police districts of London as 7,875, including 265 furnaces fitted in steam boats on the Thames. The number of convictions sought for and obtained before the magistrates in respect of smoke nuisances since the operation of the act, in 1854, amounts to 672. There are 54 different constructions of apparatus at the various manufacturing works, etc., in the metropolis, all of which work well and prevent nuisance from smoke. The number of furnaces in the city of London is 397, the convictions two, and five persons are employed as examiners of furnaces.

Worth Knowing.

There are 315 ways of changing a quarter of a dollar. The pieces used are the 20-cent piece, ten-cent piece, five-cent piece, three-cent piece and the one-cent piece. To make all these changes without using the same coin twice would require 1,233 one-cent pieces, 614 twos, 278 threes, 184 fives, 59 tens and nine twenties, making 2,584 pieces, worth $52.75.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold. Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

been playing ball and dodging police men ever since. Sweeney was the bright star of the combine, the guiding genius, the trouble boss, a prospector for excitement, an ugly customer in a mixed battle and a terror to umpires and base runners who said first.

Sanguinetti was born on the east side in New York, and there was nothing really Italian about him but his name, his dark, soulful eyes and his artistic temperament. Sanguinetti will resent this statement about his temperament, but it is true nevertheless. On the field and off he depended a great deal upon Sweeney's leadership, but Sanguinetti was a flash of lightning when it came to backing up a lead and carrying a play along to the point where the fists began to fly. There was nothing yellow about Sanguinetti but his teeth, and, while he could not invent new ways of getting into trouble

THE FLARE'S THE THING, WITHOUT A DOUBT

If you would be modish just now, you must literally flare from your hat to your hem; the hem is narrower, however.

Straight lines are seen no more unless it be on the rather severe little tailored suit, and just as like as not the bottom of that coat will flare too.

There are many modifications of the tunic or overskirt. It may be single, double or triple, or it may be a band arranged to give the effect of an overskirt; it may be short or long, one sided or regular, but it must stand out a bit from the figure.

No. 8116 shows a straight foundation skirt of black charmeuse over which is hung a double tunic. The upper tier is of figured Chinese crepe and the lower one of chiffon.

Charmeuse averages in price $1.50 per yard; chiffon may be purchased for about the same. This frock would be quite as attractive and a bit more practical, if made up in taffetas, which is wide and may be purchased from $1.25 up.

In size 36, this dress requires 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. No. 8084 shows the flare brought about by a trimming band. The skirt is of pin striped serge and the blouse is of flowered taffetas; a wide draped sash and a smart vest effect, render the frock distinctive.

To copy this costume in size 36, it requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. No. 8116—sizes 34 to 42. No. 8084—sizes 34 to 42. Each pattern 15 cents.

"MOTHER" JONES TO VILLA

Strike Leader Complains of Her Arrest in Colorado.

Denver, Colo., April 3.—An appeal
which it was said "Mother" Jones had smuggled out of the county jail at Waldenburg, Colo., where she is held as a military prisoner, was forwarded to General Francisco Villa by Horace N.
Hawkins, attorney for the United Mine Workers of America.

The aged strike leader is a personal friend of the Mexican Constitutionalist commander, Mr. Jones wrote:

"Let the nation know, and especially
let my friend, General Francisco Villa,
know, that the great United States of America, which is demanding of him
that he release the traitors he has placed under arrest, is now holding "Mother" Jones incommunicado in an underground cell, surrounded with sewer rats, thorn soldiers and other vermin."

MARCH GUILTY OF MURDER

Farmhand Convicted of Slaying Pennsylvania Tax Collector.

Media, Pa., April 3.—George H.
March was found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing S. Lewis Pinkerton, an Edgemont township tax collector and farm manager, by whom March was employed.

The jury had deliberated for more
than thirty-six hours and several times
had returned to the court room for further instructions.

Pinkerton was slain in a barn on Nov. 7, 1913. His body was later found buried in a woods five miles distant.

ST. AUGUSTINE FIRE IMPERILS TOURISTS

Five Hotels and Many Residences Are Burned.

St. Augustine, Fla., April 3.—Fire destroyed five tourists' hotels, the county court house and a number of residences here.

So far as known no lives were lost,
though hundreds of guests at the Florida, Munson, Clairmont, Atlantic
and Central hotels, which were destroyed, escaped scantly clad and had no time to save their belongings. The property damage is estimated at between $500,000 and $750,000.

Two persons were injured. An unidentified woman suffered a dislocated
neck and was probably fatally hurt
when she plunged from the third story of a residence. A Libby, a guest at the Florida, broke a leg in leaping from the second floor of the hotel. He will recover.

The fire originated in the second story of the Florida house, which was a frame structure. The fire department was on the scene quickly, but the frame building burned so rapidly that
the flames were uncontrollable and spread to the surrounding frame buildings.

Among the first buildings destroyed
was the St. Johns county court house,
supposed to have been a fire-proof
structure. The hotels destroyed were
the Florida house, Munson house, Clairmont hotel, Central hotel and Atlantic house. The Governor Opera House, the Power Boat Club house,
nine residences and several cottages
were burned, thirty-six buildings in all being a prey to the flames.

ESCAPED PRISONER RETURNS

Pottsville, Pa., April 3.—Raymond Hannan, of Ashland, who jumped from a train and escaped from officers who were bringing him to the county jail
here, walked into the court house and surrendered to Sheriff Ditchey.

Hannan said he had no intention of
flight, but when he heard the two constables who had him in charge arguing
as to who should get the fees for his incarceration it made him angry, and
he decided that neither should get the money. Hannan was released on bail.

New York Senator Who Supports Canal Tolls Repeal Bill.

Following the sensational contest
over Panama tolls in the house, a president won by eighty-six votes
such a decided victory over his opponents within the Democratic party, the
fight was transferred to the senate,
where it is scheduled to take a more deliberate and orderly course. The bill
came up in the regular order of business in the senate and was referred to Senator O'Gorman's committee on inter-oceanic canals, where it will lie
dormant for a week or two before being reported back for debate. Senator Root, of New York, is one of the leaders for the forces of Wilson.

SENATE LEADERS TO PUSH TOLLS REPEAL

"No Compromise" is Slogan
of Administration.

Washington, April 3.—Administration leaders in the senate buckled
on their armor and plunged actively into
the Panama tolls fight, determined to maintain an unyielding position until
the end of the controversy.

Though the house will to repeal tolls
exemption for American ships is resting
in the committee on inter-oceanic
canals, there were many informal conferences relating to the issue, and
among the developments was a visit of Secretary of State Bryan to the capitol in the interest of the administration policy.

"No compromise" was the slogan of
the administration leaders in their conferences.
President Wilson told inquirers that
he expected no factional delay or fillbustering and had every reason to believe from what senators told him
that there would be a prompt report
from the committee on inter-oceanic canals.

The president said there were one
or two members of the committee
who were against the repeal, but who,
he understood, would vote to bring
the question promptly before the senate in an early report.

POKER PLAYERS SHY $5000

Robbed of Money and Jewels by Five Men Who Entered Club.

New York, April 3.—Five armed
men forced their way into the "Merchants' club," in West Seventeenth street, broke up several lively poker
games and escaped with $5000 in cash
and jewelry.

There were about twenty-five players in the club when the five men appeared. Pointing revolvers at their victims, the five ordered the players to hold up their hands. While two men stood guard the other three men
searched the players. Even fraternity pins were plucked from the lapsels of the hapless card lovers.

dent Wilson the left hind foot of a

SERVING CLAMS TEMPTINGLY.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Grapefruit and Date Salad.
Escaloped Clams.
Potato Ribbons. Pulled Bread.
Chocolate.

ONLY the larger clams should be used for cooking. The smaller ones have the finest flavor for eating raw. Clams may be cooked in a number of ways other than stewing
or making into chowder. Some delicious ways are suggested here.

Fried Golden Brown.

Clam Fritters.—Take one pint clams,
two eggs, one-third cupful milk, one
and one-half cupfuls sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, salt and pepper. Clean the clams, drain from their liquor and chop. Beat eggs until light, stir in milk and flour mixed
and sifted with baking powder; then add chopped clams and season highly with salt and pepper. Drop by spoonfuls and fry in deep fat. Drain on brown paper and serve at once.

Escaloped Clams.—Take one quart
of large clams, half pound of milk
crackers, run through the meat chop-
per. Put a layer of crackers in a baking dish, then one of clams, with bits
of butter and salt and pepper till you have used them all. Pour one quart of milk over all and bake in a hot oven.

Served With Rolls.

Baked Clams.—Wash the shells clean
and put the clams, the edges down ward, in a kettle; then pour about a quart of boiling water over them, cover the pot and set it over a brisk fire
for three-quarters of an hour. Pouring boiling water on them causes the shells
to open quickly and let out the sand
which may be in them.

Take them up when done, take off
the black skin which covers the hard
part, trim them clean and put them
into a stew pan, put to them some of the liquor in which they were boiled
put to it a good bit of butter and pepper and salt to taste, make them hot
serve with cold butter and rolls.

Whiskey 12 Cents a Quart.

An old account book kept by the late Jacob Reddig, who conducted a general store at Stevens, where he gathered a fortune of $20,000, shows
that in 1835 eggs sold at 8 cents a dozen, whiskey at 12 cents a quart,
cigars 20 cents a hundred, butter at 12 cents a pound and coffee at 16
cents a pound, while calico was 30
cents a yard, striped cashmere 75
cents a yard and nails 8 cents a pound.

Kidnaped

By EUNICE BLAKE

There was trouble in Captain Carr's little home on the New Hampshire coast. The captain had received his title from the fact that he owned a sloop in which he fished in winter and took out pleasure parties in summer. She was both a motor and a sail boat and was named the Frederica from his wife.

The occasion of the trouble was that his daughter, Fannie, a comely girl of eighteen, had the night before been kidnaped. She had gone to visit her aunt a mile down the beach. It was early spring and the weather was mild. A half moon gave some light. Just before sunset a steamer about fifty feet from stem to stern dropped anchor in the bay not far from the house where Fannie Carr was visiting, and about 9 o'clock a boat was seen moving from the ship toward the shore. A party landed, went to the house, took the girl to the boat and pulled her to the schooner.

The captain suspected that his daughter had been carried away by one whom he had forbidden her to marry. This man was Jack Austin, a sailor, without means, but with nothing else against him. Carr didn't seem to know whether his daughter wished to marry Austin or not. Sometimes he thought she did and sometimes he thought she didn't.

I got wind of the matter early in the morning, and, seeing Captain Carr going to his boat with a wheelbarrow load of provisions and a carboy of water, I went down to the dock and without asking him where he was going—for I knew that he was bent on bringing back his daughter—I asked him if he didn't wish me to go with him. He said he did, and before we started Ned Beam came down, and the captain took him along too. We knew there were three on the other boat, and, since we were three, there was an even match.

The captain had been told that the boat we were after—no one had seen her name—had turned her nose northward after leaving the bay. So he steered in that direction. Every now and again when we met a boat Carr would describe to those on her the one we were after and ask if they had seen her. Some had seen her and some hadn't, but we got enough information about her to satisfy us that we were on her track. We followed her all day, and when the captain found we couldn't possibly reach her before dark he was discouraged, for he felt sure the fugitives were making for Casco bay, where there are islands enough to conceal a whole fleet.

After passing Portland we got in among these islands and lost all track of what we were following, but after meandering among them for four days we were sailing past Seguin light when the captain spied something near the main island moving westward that answered the description of the craft we wanted. We followed her down past Orrs island and saw her go through the narrow gut between Orrs and Boleys islands.

That's the last we saw of her for several days, when one evening, rounding a point of Cliff island, we saw her anchored in a cove no great distance from us. We made for her, expecting to see some one preparing to receive us, but as we neared her not a human being could we see aboard of her. We anchored near her, and the captain and Ned Beam got into the tender and went aboard her.

After awhile the captain pulled back and said that they had found her deserted. Her name had been painted off the stern, but they could see the white letters underneath—Rowena. She must have been laid up for some time, for her fires were out and the female only wailed. His idea was that something had gone wrong with them, and they had been obliged to lay up. Probably they had seen us and had left their craft and gone up into the island, though they could have got away from there, since the little steamers were stopping at the dock on the other side a number of times a day.

Captain Carr told me that he had left Beam on the Rowena, and I was to stay on the Frederica while he went up on to the island to find out if any one had seen anything of the party we were after. He did so and returned disappointed, for he had found no one who had seen any such party.

Leaving Ned on the Rowena, the captain and I turned in at 9 o'clock and turned out again about 6 o'clock. The captain went on deck and called to Ned, who did not appear. Getting no reply, he went aboard the Rowena, to find her not only deserted by her crew, but by Ned as well. The captain was mystified and so was I. Not knowing what to do, we did nothing.

About 10 o'clock we saw several men coming toward us, headed by Fannie Carr herself. She asked her father to come ashore to her and told him that Austin had kidnaped her, but that during the trip she had forgiven him. The boiler of the Rowena having given out, they had been obliged to give up their flight. When the captain and I had gone aboard of their boat the men of the party, except Jack, had gone ashore, and she and Jack had hidden in the furnace.

After a long powwow, the captain gave in, consented to the match, and we all went back on the Frederica, towing the Rowena.

Cheerful.

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oil, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George H. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading down town druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and can now be had at almost any drug store. It is now sold here by For sale by The People's Drug Store.
